The Butler, Snow, O'Mara, Stevens & Cannada (Butler Snow) Foundation has awarded a $25,751 grant to The University of Southern Mississippi Children's Center for Communication and Development for its project focusing on Early Intervention, Literacy and School Readiness for Young Children with Significant Disabilities.

"The USM Children's Center for Communication and Development creates programs that significantly enrich the lives of its participants and the community it serves, so we are very honored to support this project," said Foundation chair and Butler Snow attorney Thomas E. Williams. "We applaud the Center for its contributions to early intervention for children with developmental challenges. Early intervention is critical to creating a positive future for young children with disabilities."

Representatives from Butler Snow will make the grant presentation to The Children's Center during a special ceremony set for April 23 from 10 a.m.-noon on the first floor of the J.B. George Building, room 109.
