

LAW AND ACCOUNTING

Butler Snow expands Birmingham office as 19 attorneys join firm

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. — Butler Snow has expanded the firm's Birmingham office as 19 attorneys join the firm, bringing the total number of attorneys in Birmingham to 24 and nearly 280 firm-wide.

"We are pleased to have this group of attorneys join us in Birmingham, one of our strategic growth markets," said Donald Clark Jr., chairman, Butler Snow. "The depth of experience among this team further strengthens many of our existing practices and we're very proud that they have chosen Butler Snow."

Attorney's joining Butler Snow's Birmingham office are Brad S. Anderson, Austin A. Averitt, James C. Barton, Jr., Katie Boyd Britt, Sarah E. Hoffmann, Russell L. Irby, Michael H. Johnson, David R. Kinman, Jerome K. Lanning, Henry Sprott Long III, Margaret H. Loveman, Alan D. Mathis, Bradley C. Mayhew, Randall D. McClanahan, Angie Godwin McEwen, T. Kurt Miller, E. Alston Ray, J. William Rose, Jr. and Caroline D. Walker. They join Helen Kathryn Downs, who recently joined the firm, and four others in the Birmingham office.

"Our team is excited to join Butler Snow as the firm continues to grow throughout the Southeast and across the nation," said J. William Rose Jr., a leading member of the Birmingham team.

